An Oak Wilt Workshop offered by Cornell University, the NYS Department of Environmental Conservation and the Cornell Cooperative Extension of Westchester County

Oak Wilt: A Harmful Introduction to New York State

Tuesday, June 13, 2017 at the Westchester County Center, 198 Central Avenue, White Plains, NY 10606

NYSDEC, LA, NYS-ISA, and SAF credits have been applied for!

Presenters:
Karen Snover-Clift-Cornell University, Plant Disease Diagnostic Clinic Director & NEPDN Associate Director

Jerry Carlson-NYS Department of Environmental Conservation, Research Scientist & Chief of Forest Protection Division of Lands & Forests

Workshop Agenda

8:15-8:50am: Registration
8:50-9:00am: Welcome and Introductions
9:00-10:00am: Oak Wilt; What is it and What Do New Discoveries of this Harmful Pathogen Mean for Oaks in New York State-Karen Snover-Clift
10:00-10:15am: Refreshment Break
10:15-11:15am: Oak Wilt; The NYSDEC’s Strategy for Minimizing the Damage of this Harmful Pathogen’s Infections-Jerry Carlson
11:15-11:45am: Question and Answer Period with the Presenters.
11:45am: Adjourn

There is no charge for this workshop but we do ask that you please register by contacting Cornell Cooperative Extension, 3 West Main St., Suite 112, Elmsford, NY 10523 by calling 914-285-4640 or by email to Martha Mocbeichel at mpm47@cornell.edu.
Program questions? Contact Jerry Giordano at ggg3@cornell.edu